IRC Chimney Scans

Insurance Restoration Consultants ready to scan chimneys for damages

Need a chimney scan this fall? Knowing that the fall months are the most common for chimney scans, IRC is ready to assist you in whatever way needed. Our services involve sending a camera down the chimney and taking video upon inspection. Further, we then carefully review the tape in order to determine any damages to the chimney. Why get a chimney scan? A chimney scan is important because it will allow us to see if there is any damage to the chimney. Chimney scans are done in order to confirm if a chimney fire has damaged the flue lines or inside of the chimney.

They are also utilized to determine whether lightning has hit and damaged the flue liners or inside of the the chimney. With a wide range of certifications, IRC consultant Andy Shutty will handle any chimney scan claims that you may need assistance on.

New IRC Website Coming Soon!

Company plans to unveil new website at the end of 2011

An upgraded IRC company website will be available at the end of 2011. With the website, IRC aims to provide their clients with a source of information about the company and an ease of use and navigation. The website should provide more functionality, information, and a better overall design. Highlights of the site will include the ability to send your claim to IRC via the web. Unless preferred, a call with no longer be necessary. The required information will be available to you and you can submit the claim at your own convenience. Another strong point of the company website will be the ability to locate and identify all of the services that IRC provides. This will allow our current and future clientele to better understand some of the services that they may have been unaware of. Whether you would like to get a company overview, get the phone number or even to submit a claim, IRC hopes that the website will be able to provide an easily searchable site for our current or future clients.
